

Dear [Name],

Costello Law Firm is proud to announce the expansion of its boutique defense litigation law firm and welcome Attorney Wendy Harper and Chief of Staff Nari Weaver.

Wendy Harper clerked for the Honorable D. Duff McKee in Boise, Idaho, served as a prosecutor in the Seattle City Attorney's Criminal Office, and has extensive trial experience and many years defending individuals in criminal matters. She also practiced at national law firms and worked at the Federal Civil Rights Clinic for thirteen years.

Nari Weaver serves as Chief of Staff, leading firm operations, strategic initiatives, communications, and organizational development. Nari brings more than 15 years of marketing and operations experience. She works closely with firm leadership to translate strategy into execution and enhance the systems and infrastructure supporting the firm's attorneys, clients, and continued growth.

Together, Wendy and Nari strengthen Costello Law Firm's ability to provide strategic representation while preserving the personal attention and senior-level advocacy that define our practice. They complement Costello Law Firm's decades of trial, white collar, regulatory, and complex litigation experience.

We represent business owners and professionals facing government investigations, regulatory or professional disciplinary actions. We frequently team with outside counsel to represent clients facing concurrent, civil, civil enforcement, criminal and licensing matters.

Respectfully,

Kris Costello
